We have seven bodies: the physical, the etheric, astral, mental, spiritual, cosmic and nirvanic. Each body has its own type of dreams. The physical body is known in Western psychology as consciousness, the etheric body as the unconscious, the astral body as the collective unconscious. Dreaming is not just dreaming, it is something relevant, important. You can not dream without a cause, even dreams have causality. They are meaningful, they reveal something about you. In fact, they reveal much more about you than anything you do while you're awake.
